BOTTS AND HIS BRIDE.

The Mystery of the Marriage Still Unsolved.

Statements and Counter Statements-Affidavits and Counter Affidavits-The Doomed Man Abandons Hope of Further Respice and Gives Instructions About His Funeral-He Denies Having Blasphemed at a Reporter.

Following up the interviews had with Mrs. Wiland Joe McGorey and published in Monday's HERALD, comes a statement made by one Peter M. Doreums, an ex-hostelrie keeper of Newark, who declares that at the time Botts and his newly wodded wife stopped at Joe McGorey's place he was introduced to her. He describes her as a short stout woman, totally unlike Mr.s Wilson in appear-ance. The latter ne claims to have known since childhood, and he is quite as emphatic in his opin-ion that she and "Juha Jenkins" are two persons as Joe is that they are one and the same. Again, on the other hand, the friends of Bottts hold in their Jacobus, a married daughter of Botts, makes oath that Mrs. Wilson told her in January, 1866, and since that, "that she was married to my father der an assumed name, to get rid of a prosecution for bigamy, and often requested this deponent to call her mother, which deponent did, believing her to be my stepmother, and always continued to call her mother until the murder of 'Pet' Halsted."

Mrs. Mary A. Jacobus, of Montville, Morris county, swears that Botts and Mrs. Wilson stayed at her house one night in April, 1865. Botts treated his friends to beer on the occasion in honor of his recent mar-been married in the fall previous.

BOTTS' MOTHER'S STATEMENT.

The murderer's poor old mother (whose age may be estimated when it is stated that botts himself is a grandparent—nearly sixty years of age, though he looks ten years younger), also makes an afildavit
as follows:—

as follows:

MORRIS COUNTY, 88:—Personally appeared before me, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for the county of Morris, Frances Boits, of the township of Montville and county aforesaid, on her cash saith:—My son George on or about the 1st day of April, 165, came nome in company with Mrs. Wilson, whom he introduced as his lawful wife. And the said Mrs. Wilson did then and there say that she was the lawful wife of my son, George Boits, and that her former husband died of caronic diarrheea, in the army.

Mrs. Mary Degraw, another of Botts' sisters, affirms that he visited her, in company with Mrs. Witson, whom he "introduced as his lawful wife." They stayed at her house air night, and Mrs. Witson acknowledged him to be "her lawful wedded husband." Mrs. Degraw further declares that the woman she saw on the stand at the trial is the same person who was at her house with Botts. It would thus seem that the bulk of the evidence is against Mrs. Witson's infidavits, but it is not likely that the truth will ever be more directly proven unless Mrs. Witson's hindavits, but it is not likely that the truth will ever be more directly proven unless Mrs. Witson's hindavits, but it is not likely that the truth will ever be more directly proven unless Mrs. Witson's hindavits, but it is not likely that the truth will ever be more directly proven unless, Mrs. W. B. Gund. Jr., visited him in the jail, when Botts said that he had no hope of hving beyond next Friday, but before God he was telling the truth in saying that he and Mrs. Witson were married; it was the truth, and he should adhere to fit with his dying breath. He expressed great sorrow that he had been falsely represented in the papers as having uttered a biasphemous expression at a reporter. Mr. George Johnson says that some country bumpkin of mest ungainly appearance had given some information to a Newark paper about Botts which was not true. When he again visited the jail he sought to conclimite Botts which was not true. When he ngain visited the jail he sought to conclimite Botts which was not true. When he ngain visited the jail he sought to conclimite Botts which was not true. When he ngain visited the jail he sought to conclimate Botts by offering him a cigar. Botts indignantiv refused, saying he would take "no favors from a follow who would he so." A short pariey ensued, during which Botts called him a liar, but anded no bias, hemous expletive, as the bumpkin had represented.

SENT FOR DAN TUCKER,
his former business partner, and gave instructions in his own lot in the churchyard at Rockaway Valiey, morris county. He expressed a wish to have a respectable funeral, and told Tucker to secure a nice carriage and pair of horses for the occasion, which he desired to take place on Sunday.

THE FADING SHADOW OF HOPE.

Yesterday afternoon his brother, John Botts, and compositor Guild, went to Trentoa to use their efforts in getting the Legislature to pass the bill now in possession of Senator John W. Taylor, of Newark, the features of which have already been SENT POR DAN TUCKER, Newerk, the features of which have already been amply explained in the HERALD. Those best able to give an opinion, even Mr. Guild himself, expressed the opinion hast evening that the bill would not pass so as to be of any use to Botts.

A despatch from the HERALD representative in Trenton late last hight said tarfe was "no prospect of Botts" bill being introduced, at the members nanifested general opposition to it."

Botts To Be Hanged.

All hope of prevailing on the Legislature of New ersey to take any action in the bill proposed for the older of the murderer Botts has been abandoned by nanifest desire on the part of legislators to fight thy of the matter. It is reasoned by them that Botts has been tried, found guilty and senenced by one of the purest and most cautious of the Jersey courts; that the Court of Pardons has declined to interiere, and therefore that they would statisty themselves to move in the matter. A last effort will be made to hance Governor Parker to grant another respite, but there being no plausible grounds for such action, it is deemed extremely doubtful that he will interpose. In the meantime Sheriff Feckwell is making all his PREPARATIONS FOR THE EXECUTION On Friday, which will take place in the interior of the jail building, in the main hall. The gallows, which was found to be much diaphiated, has been repaired, and is now all ready to be placed in position. The number of persons who will be admitted to the jail on Friday will be limited to about seventy-five persons, including officers, medical men and pross representatives. Yesterday the Sheriff assued some of his permits. They read as follows: thy of the matter. It is reasoned by them that

Admit bearer to County Jan January 28, A. D. 1872, JAMES PECKWELL, Sheriff,

They are written on strips of foolscap paper, and at the leit hand corner have a large red seal of "Essex county, New Jersey," about the size of a silver dollar.

A BAD WOMAN'S WORK.

Another Shocking Suicide in Newark, N. J. Yesterday morning Peter Witzel, a private watch-man employed by Alfred F. Munn, harness maker, by the neck, in the factory hatchway. Witzel was a sober industrious man, fifty-six years of age, and had been in Mr. Muno's employ twenty years.
At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the army, At the outereax of the war he emission the army, and served bravely to the close. During his absence his wife forgot her marriage vows, and, as alleged, played the part of a wanton. After his return a permanent separation was agreed upon; but it appears Peter was a most forgiving man, and still contributed to ner support and that of her children. He even desired her to return. This she repeatedly promised to do, but stayed with him only long enough to secure his savings. Last Sunday night she visited him, coming from New York, where she lives. Whatever passed between them left Witzel excited when she returned. On Monday night he locked up and retired, and the next seen of him was his dead body. He slept in the lactory and on Monday night appears to have removed the trapdoor of the hatchway on the third floor of the building, lowered the main rope and fastened the check cord attached to the pulley, so as to prevent the main rope from slipping. He then looped around his neck a piece of rope about three feet in length, leastened it to the hook attached to the main rope, and, it is thought, jumped through the open actoway, falling about hime feet. His neck was broken and his death must have been instantaneous, he was a member of Eureka Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Newark. and served bravely to the close. During his absence proper Herrman yesterday held an inquest at his be in the City Hall in the case of Christina Ratzer, a little girl six years of age, who was run over

SHARP DECLINE IN STOCKS.

The stock market was excited over a sharp decline in prices, occasioned by heavy sales throughout the day. Considering the rapidity and extent of the downward movement there was unusually little gossip or discussion as to the influences causing it. The time seemed to have gone by for moralizing or induiging in theories. No one could ex-plain it and no one appeared able to enlighten his neighbor. The market kept falling, with spasmodic reactions, and everybody fell back on the simple first cause of every weakness in back on the simple first cause of every weakness in stocks, viz.—more sellers than buyers. It is true that mistrust of treachery in the confraternity of cique dealers, suspictons of "scoops," and appre-hensions of some great financial matter soon to be developed, were aroused and entertained; but they chased each other through the brain of the speculative throng until the whole situation became so confused and befogged that the most veteran out-sider "gave it up" in despair. In this distraction figures were facts, and to them all attention was directed. Pacific Mail and Northwest fell each 4% per cent; Ohios, 2% per cent; Union Pacific, 2% per cent; Lake Shore and Western Union, each 1% per cent. Wabash, after being dragged down % per cent, recovered % per cent, so that its latest price was its highest. Otherwise the closing dealmgs were at a reaction, very irregular in extent. In the miscellaneous rallways Hannibal and St. Joseph went of from 54 to 50%.

almost irreparable loss in the death of Professor Thompson, of the Sydney University. As a geologist he held a front rank, and, to him the world is in debted for the valuable discoveries made in the limestone caves at Wellington. While engaged in this expedition he contracted a fatal disease from exposure to the weather and died at the early age of thirty-one. His brillhant career at the London University induced hopes that his mature age would be productive of the most distinguished and valuable results.

THE SMALLPOR.

Work of the Vaccinating Corps for the Past Week-The Pestilence Still Raging.

Although the attention called to the spread of this Although the attention called to the spread of this epidemic by the Herallo on Thursday last aroused the people to a sense of the danger to which they were exposed from this loatnsome pestilence, there is still a vast majority of the population who are taking no means to secure themselves against to point out the danger to which the people were exposed and urge upon them to take the means so near at his nd to guard themselves from the pestituces. At last, however, the city seems to have thoroughly aroused to the necessity of doing something, and last week the work of the vaccinating corps was comparatively easy. Why the people should have such a repugnance to being vaccinated seems an enigma, whose they are told upon the best authority that it is the surest and, in fact, the only means of avoiding the dreadful disease. The operation of vaccination, as performed by the medical men composing the vaccinating corps of the Health Department, is extremely simple, not at all painful, and produces no uncomfortable results. The vaccine is carefully self-ted by good judges, and is the very best that can be produced. No charge is made for the vaccination, and the doctors go to the hones of the people; so that they are not even put to the inconvenience of going out to get it. To most reasonable persons this would seem sufficient to make the population of a large city of securing themselves against so dility a disease; but the experience of the vaccinating gentlemen is that it is very difficult to induce the people, and more especially the poor people, to suffer the vaccination. During the past week, however, a botter spirit has been snown, and the result is that a larger number has been vaccinated than during any previous week since the disease first broke out. The vaccination corps is composed of forty-eight trained physicians, and during the week ending Saturday, the 20th inst., they vaccinated by The rained physicians, and during the week ending Saturday, the 20th inst., they vaccinated by The means of the saturday was seventy-eight, against eighty-three during the previous week. FATAL FALL FROM A WAGON. Liquor Dealers Consured by a Coroner's Jury.

The death of Andrew Roberts, an Orange county farmer, who fell from his wagon near Washingtonville on Friday night last and broke his neck, has aiready been referred to by the HERALD. On Saturday J. B. Vroom, Acting Coroner of that village, day J. B. Vroom, Acting Coroner of that village, held an inquest. The evidence showed that the deceased, in company with a neighbor named Moses Camp, left his home at five P. M. on Friday and drove to Debenham's Hotel, at Little Britain, seven miles from Newburg. There the two drank five or six glasses of whiskey apiece, and after remaining about an hour at this hotel they drove to the Rock Tavern, where more whiskey was consumed, and a start for home was made. Camp swore on the inquest that when they were passing through Washingtonville Roberts "Chirruped" to his horse, and the animal starting suddenty, Camp was known out backward. Roberts drove on, not waiting for his companion, and a short distance beyond was himself thrown out and instantly killed. The jury rendered this verication—"We find that Andrew Roberts came to his death on the 19th day of January, 1872, between the hours of nine and ten o'clock in the evening, by being thrown from his wagon while under the luduence of inquer, and that the cause of death was discussion of the neck; and we, the jurors, do strongly censare the party or parties who sold the fluor to the deceased."
